L 1 Numb. 894

The Daily Courant.

Monday, February 26. 1705.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Feb. 28.

Venice, February 7.

THE Advices from Breſcia import, that the French have ſtop'd up the Entrance of the Canals that Iſſue out of the Oglio. The Territory of Crema has agreed with the French, to ſend every day a certain Number of Loads of Hay to Soncino; upon which Condition the French are oblig'd not to Forrage in that Province. 'Tis ſtill reported the Imperialiſts will march out of the Breſſan, as ſoon as they have receiv'd the Supplies of Money they expect. And indeed a Merchant of Breſcia having furniſh'd them with 40000 Crowns, they have begun to make ſome Motions, having drawn off the Cannon they had in their Intrenchments on the Iſland of the Franciſcans in the Lake of Garda, and in ſome other Places on the Banks of that Lake. They write likewiſe from Verona, that they have tranſported Troops to the Veroneze, deſigning to march them towards Valeggio near the Mincio; but that the Grand Prior of France has prevented them, being come to Mantua with ſeveral Companies of Grenadiers, to oppoſe the Deſigns of the Imperialiſts. He has likewiſe given neceſſary Orders for the ſecuring the Poſts of Oſtiglia and Revere, guarding the Paſſages of the Po, and enforcing the Blockade of Mirandola, which is ſtreighten'd cloſer than ever, ſince the Information given by ſeveral Priſoners taken in the laſt Action that the Garriſon is in want of many things, and would have ſurrendred before now but for the hopes of being reliev'd. We have juſt receiv'd Advice, that a Body of French Troops, having march'd with Diligence towards Laciſe, attack'd 800 German Horſe commanded by General Pate; of whom they kill'd 300, took Priſoners as many, and put to the Rout the reſt of the German Troops that were on that ſide.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated March 3.

Warſaw, Feb. 17. The Swedes that were at Lowicz, are retir'd, and have taken the Route of Caliz, whence 'tis ſuppos'd they will march towards Sileſia. The King of Sweden has given Orders for circular Letters to be ſent to all the Palatinats, to acquaint them that they muſt peremptorily and upon Oath declare, whether they will adhere to King Auguſtus or Staniſlaus; becauſe his Swediſh Maſeſty will not ſuffer any of them to be Neuters, being reſolv'd to treat all ſuch in the ſame manner as he does thoſe who are avowedly of King Auguſtus's Party. A Report is current of a Treaty concluded at Rawicz between the King of Sweden and the King of Pruſſia; the Import of which is not yet made publick. King Staniſlaus is at preſent ('tis ſuppos'd) at Rawicz with the King of Sweden, who the 3d of this Month took a Review of moſt of the Foot of his Army; and order'd his Cavalry to put themſelves in Motion. The Czar cauſes preſſing Inſtances to be made, that the Treaty concluded with him by the Palatin of Culm in his Embaſſy from K. Auguſtus be ratified. Some Muſcovite Troops are come to Wilna, whence many of the Inhabitants are retir'd to into the Ducal Pruſſia and particularly to Conigsberg. We have Advice from Cracow, that the 5th of this Month, the Senators and Deputies appear'd in great Number in the Council conven'd by King Auguſtus, and among them the Biſhops of Culm and Kiovia; the Palatins of Ruſſia, Inowlodavia, Mazovia, and Culm; the Caſtellans of Sandomir, Rava, Polonicz, Wiſſivz, and Spicimir; the Vice-Chancellor of the Crown, the Referendaries of the Crown and of the Great Dutchy of Lithuania; and ſeveral other great Officers of the Crown; with the Marſhals of the Confederacy and of the Army. The 6th a Letter from King Auguſtus was read, in which he gave the Reaſons why he delay'd his coming to Cracow, and gave them hopes he would be with them in a very ſhort time; whereupou they reſolv'd unanimouſly to adjourn for 3 Weeks after his Majeſty ſhould return, without fixing any Day, to the end the Enemy might have no certain Knowledge of the Time of his coming; Which Precaution was judg'd neceſſary, becauſe 'tis not doubted they will way-lay his Majeſty and endeavour to intercept him in his Journey. It was likewiſe reſolv'd, that In caſe any preſſing Affair ſhould require the Meeting of this Council before his ſaid Majeſty's return, the Marſhal of the Confederacy ſhould convene them.

Maeſtricht, Feb. 27. Monſieur Croonſtroom, who arriv'd here lately from the Hague, went from hence this Afternoon attended by a Guard of Horſe, to take Poſſeſſion of his Government of Huy. The Voluntiers detach'd from ſeveral Regiments in the Service of the States General, to be ſent to ſerve in Portugal, are preparing to march out of their Garriſons; thoſe from Liege came from thence yeſterday, and thoſe of our Garriſon will be going in 2 or 3 days for Holland.

Cologne, Feb. 27. Yeſterday arriv'd here 37 Pieces of Cannon; moſt of which were taken from the Enemy in the Battle of Hochſtet; they are to be carried to Dort. 'Tis advis'd from Maeſtricht, that the 23d of this Month, a Party belonging to the Garriſon of that Place brought in thither between 30 and 40 Priſoners, ſeveral of which have already taken Service in the Troops of the Allies. They write from Liege, that the Marquis de Ximenes is fallen under the Diſpleaſure of the King of France or Spain, and is put under Confinement in a Caſtle near Maubeuge; but they do not tell us for what Cauſe. The Elector of Cologne, has through the Interceſſion of his Brother the Elector of Bavaria, obtain'd Permiſſion to reſide at Namur.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Feb. 28.

Bruſſels, Feb. 20. 'Tis advis'd from the Hague, that the States have at length yielded to the Inſtances of the Engliſh, and reſolv'd to ſend on board the Grand Fleet the Regiments of Marines, of Spar, and of St. Amand, making together 2400 Men. They have likewiſe agreed to the ſending of 3000 Horſes to Portugal, where Horſes cannot be had to remount the Cavalry: The Engliſh are to furniſh 2000 and the Dutch 1000; and Orders are given to hire Tranſport Veſſels to carry them. They uſe all poſſible Diligence to fit out their Fleet, and being apprehenſive of the Inconveniencies of too long Delay, they have reſolv'd (we hear) to ſend the Ships to Lisbon in Squadrons as faſt as they are equipp'd; to make all imaginable Efforts in Spain this Year, to be ſatisfied whether there be any ground for the Hopes with which the Court of Vienna flatter themſelves, or the Promiſes of the Prince of Darmſtad and the Amirante of Caſtile; and if the Succeſs be no better than they have had hitherto, the Allies (ſay theſe Letters from the Hague) will no longer be at ſuch exceſſive ceſſive Charges as this part of the War engages them in, but take Meaſures ſuitable to their Intereſt. Letters from London of the 13th ſay, that the Ships deſign'd for Portugal, and for Gibraltar, continued at Portſmouth, and that 'twas ſtill uncertain what Day they would ſail, becauſe the Men of War commanded by Rear Admiral Dilks, to convoy them, were not ready yet, though they are few in Number. The News they had from Lisbon was, that the Preparations for the enſuing Campaign were but little advanc'd: that the Generals and the Miniſters of England and Holland complain'd of the Portugueſe, and that the Portugueſe reproach'd them that they had nor yet executed what they had promis'd by the Treaty they had made with them, to engage them in a ruinous War. Sir John Lake, (they tell us) was return'd from Gibraltar to Lisbon, to take in Ammunition and all ſorts of Proviſions for the Garriſon of Gibraltar; but it appear'd difficult for him to do it before the arrival of the Convoy he expected from England.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated March 3.

Amſterdam, March 3. Some Letters from Madrid inform us, that the new Taxes laid upon the Spaniſh Nation, augment the Uneaſineſs they feel under the French Methods of Government; there being few Perſons among them, who comparing the preſent Condition of their Country with the paſt, do not already find great (and foreſee yet greater) Alterations for the worſe. Theſe Letters add, that a French Miniſter is arriv'd at Madrid, and that he has brought with him a Project of a Spaniſh India Company, not unlike thoſe that are eſtabliſh'd in England and Holland; to make which Project ſucceed, he propoſes in the firſt place, that a Fund be ſettled of Sixteen hundred thouſand Ducats, and pretends this will be a Means to make Trade flouriſh in Spain without the Aſſiſtance of any other Nation. But they tell us this Project does not ſuit this time of War, ſuch an Eſtabliſhment as he propoſes requiring that the Nation ſhould be at Peace, that Men ſhould be united in their Affections to the Government, and conſequently that there ſhould be more Credit and mutual Confidence between them than there is at preſent.
